

A Message From the County Executive

The Westchester County Databook is your source for information on Westchester County's people, places, economy and life.

Whether you are looking for community profiles, information about emergency services, senior programs or businesses, our Databook has it all and much more.

The Databook is organized in convenient sections that reference topics ranging from Westchester's physical attributes and government organization to demographic and business statistics. The 2008 edition of the Databook includes many new features, such as chapters on transportation and utilities, as well as health and emergency services.

We provide web addresses to many key County web sites to make your quest for information even easier.

The Databook, prepared by the county's Department of Planning and Office of Economic Development, is available on our website at: <http://www.westchestergov.com/planning>. Look through its many pages and you will find a wealth of information about the quality of life in our county and the vast services we provide to our residents, businesses and visitors.
