

SANITARIAN TRAINEE

Westchester County is currently accepting Civil Service Exam applications for multiple openings for Sanitarian Trainees in the Department of Health. Applicants MUST hold a Bachelor's Degree with a minimum of 12 credit hours in the natural sciences. When fully trained, the professional sanitarian will routinely inspect environments throughout Westchester County to ensure that businesses and public facilities remain compliant with safety, health and environmental regulations set forth by federal, state and local governments.

Under direct supervision, employees in this title receive on-the-job training while performing limited duties in environmental health inspection and investigation. During the traineeship, the incumbents may accompany the Sanitarian as necessary on environmental health inspections and investigations and perform duties under close supervision. Incumbents will learn to prepare reports of findings of inspections and investigations, noting conditions found and citing violations and deficiencies. Trainee appointments are for a period of one year, during which time employees are required to satisfactorily complete a public health training course approved by the State Health Department. Upon satisfactory completion of the traineeship and the course, incumbents are promoted to the Sanitarian level without further examination.

REQUIRED: Bachelor's Degree with a minimum of 30 credit hours in the natural sciences, of which not more than 12 credit hours may be in the applied sciences.

*SPECIAL NOTE: The term natural science means a science such as biology, chemistry, or physics that deals with the objects, phenomena, or laws of nature and the physical world. It includes all physical and biological sciences. The term applied science shall mean science based courses in environmental technology, sanitarian technology, medical technology, public health, infectious control or food science.
